

Spotted Gully Shark

What You Need To Know About South Africa's Spotted Gully Shark

The Spotted Gully Shark is a common South African Shark species and is often caught by rock and surf and beach anglers during day and night. The Spotted Gully Shark is not renowned for its fighting ability but without a doubt it is one of the more interesting and beautiful shark species to catch. The Spotted Gully Shark has a few names... Sharptooth Houndshark and Sweet William; this Gully Shark is also affectionately known by many anglers as simply a Spotty. This shark can often be confused with the Smoothound Shark, but an easy way to distinguish between the 2 species is that the Spotted Gully Shark has a lot more black spots and these cover their entire body and sharper tiny teeth. Smoothound has little knob teeth. They look like large ink spots...

Smoothound V-Mouth

SPOTTED GULLYSHARK TEETH - Sharp tooth cusps

SMOOTH HOUNDSHARK - Round pavement molars